Food for Thought

Woody Allen (entertainer) "For when we lose twenty pounds, dear reader, we may be losing the twenty best pounds we have! We may be losing the pounds that contain our genius, our humanity, our love and honesty."

John & Karen Hess (American food critic & cook) "The real American pattern for feeding is the snack. It lasts from early morning to bedtime."

James Blard (food critic) "Too few people understand a really good sandwich."

Ray Kroc (restaurateur) "It was not her sex appeal, but the obvious relish with which she devoured the hamburger that made my pulse begin to hammer with excitement."

Tom Wicher (journalist) "If you have few standards and no patience for details, better send out for pizza."

Charles de Gaulle (French Statesman) "How can you govern a country which has 246 varieties of cheese?"
